Alexander Schultz leverages strategic legal insight and a business-minded approach to deliver results aligned with his clients' goals.

With a strong background in economics from the University of Michigan and a J.D. from the University of Detroit Mercy School of Law, Alex brings a disciplined, data-driven perspective to his work. His practice at Zausmer includes insurance defense and commercial litigation, allowing him to apply his analytical skills to a wide range of complex issues.

Alex uses his economic insight to assess risks and strategically guide his clients toward cost-effective solutions. His work on commercial cases, including eminent domain matters, demonstrates his ability to handle high-stakes litigation with precision and attention to client objectives.

Alex is known for his thorough preparation and dedication to understanding each client's needs. He reviews case details meticulously, ensuring that his recommendations are well-informed and strategic. His client communications and motions reflect his analytical approach and focus on clear, concise language, which helps clients stay engaged and informed throughout the legal process. Colleagues value his collaborative mindset and his eagerness to expand his knowledge and skills.

Outside the office, Alex is an avid outdoors enthusiast who enjoys staying active. On weekends, he can often be found golfing, snowboarding, or relaxing at his family's cottage on Lake Michigan. An adventurous traveler, he has explored the Caribbean by catamaran and seizes every opportunity to enjoy backcountry snowboarding.
